

Simon Potter, Chief Executive Officer

Simon Potter qualified as a geologist and has post-graduate business qualifications from the University of London and Stanford. He has over 35 years oil and gas industry and mining sector experience where he has held executive roles in major oil companies managing oil and gas exploration, development and production, gas and LNG processing, sales and transportation across such varied jurisdictions as those in Europe, Russia, America, Africa and Australasia. He has managed operations in oil Majors, joint-ventures, private and public companies with a track record of considerable exploration success in Africa and Southern America.

He was first involved in oil exploration activities in the Bahamas in 2005 when Bahamas Petroleum was created and was subsequently appointed Chief Executive Officer in 2011.